NEW ACCREDITATION STANDARDS - PUBLIC INFORMATION SESSIONS

Ahead of the formal introduction of its new Accreditation Standards for Psychology Programs on 1 January 2019 the Australian Psychology Accreditation Council will be running a series of public information sessions across Australia during 2018. These sessions will focus on the process to develop the new standards, what has changed in the Standards themselves and what this means for the APAC accreditation process going forward. The sessions will run for about 90 minutes, including time for Q&A.

Visit APAC's Standards page at www.psychologycouncil.org.au/standards_review for more information.
